

The Best Beaches In The Islands

Hawaii is home to some of the most famous beaches in the world, and Hawaii Tourism, has curated a list of the best spots to send your clients.

For Kauai-bound clients, the Poipu Beach Park comes in hot. It is one of the island's most popular beaches, it boasts crystal-clear waters.

Also recommended on the garden island is Lydgate Beach Park, which is a family-friendly East Side beach that offers safe swimming and snorkelling.

On Oahu, Ala Moana Beach is still considered one of Hawaii's best swimming beaches.

And further east, send clients to the iconic Hanauma Bay Nature Preserve, arguably the most famous of Hawaii's snorkelling beaches (but urge clients to check which dates it is open before they set off).

Hulopoe Beach on Lanai also makes the list, having been ranked among America's best beaches, with its clear waters and abundance of marine life making it great for snorkelling.

Alternatively for snorkelling, suggest Molokai's Kumimi Beach.

Over on Maui, Kaanapali Beach is a 'swimmers paradise' with a mile-plus of white sands and gentle waters, while Makena Beach State Park also makes the list, noted for its lengthy stretch of white sand.

Wrapping up the list are the beaches on the Island of Hawaii; Hapuna Beach State Recreation Area is known as one of Hawaii's finest swimming beaches, whilst the sheltered Kahaluu Beach Park is renowned for its excellent snorkelling.

NCL Hawaii Re-start

Norwegian Cruise Line's Pride of America has returned to Hawaii, and recommenced its weekly, seven-day year-round voyages.

NCL vice president and managing director Australia and New Zealand Ben Angell says Hawaii is one of the most popular destinations amongst Kiwi guests.

"With Hawaii cruises recommencing this week and sailing throughout the year, our award-winning itinerary aboard Pride of America is the ideal close-to-home escape for Kiwi travellers who can't wait to set sail again."

The cruise line is currently offering savings of up to 35% on its Hawaiian voyages, as well as a Free at Sea offer. For further details, see HERE.

Hawaii For Foodies

From street festivals celebrating canned meat to those hosting some of the best international chefs in the world, Hawaii has plenty to offer events-wise for those looking to experience its culinary scene.

First up is the Taste of Oahu Night Market, which is on the first Fri of every month. The family friendly event is located at Aloha Stadium, and boasts local food stalls and food trucks, arts and crafts and live entertainment. Entry starts from USD15 for those aged 12+.

... Classy Cuisine

For those clients who are seeking something a little flashier than canned meat, recommend the Hawaii Food and Wine Festival, is on 21 Oct-06 Nov

Events are spread across multiple islands, with an all-star lineup of local and international chefs from around the world.

The array of dining and grazing events are all designed to showcase the state's produce, meats and seafood, while also highlighting its sustainable farming and other agricultural practices. The 2022 programme and tickets are still to be released, but agents can stay up to date HERE.

New At Kailua

Keen shoppers are advised that popular Hawaii clothing brand Twin Islands and healthy eatery Sunrise Shack have recently launched a joint partnership, with both now present at Kailua Beach Center in a shared space.

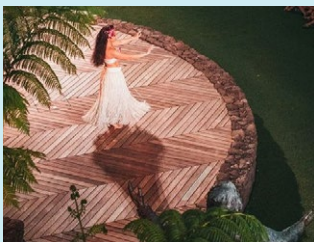

Waikiki's Block Festivals

Hawaii's premier block party, the 71st Annual Waikiki Hoolaulea, is coming to Waikiki this 17 Sep.

The party takes over the beachfront Kalakaua Ave, with booths highlighting Hawaii cuisine, crafts and culture as well as multiple stages with live music and entertainment. The 2022 programme is yet to be released, but agents can keep up HERE.

Free Hula Shows

Many things have changed since C-19 hit but Waikiki's International Market Place still offers free hula shows. The O N Lani Sunset Stories runs every Mon, Wed and Fri at 1830 on the Queen's Court. Find out more, and keep up to date with the International Market Place HERE.
